Strikes Spread Toward Record For This Year

Comparative Quiet, However, Prevails Over Broad and Troubled Labor Front While All Eyes Kept on Nation's Capital—Auto Plants and Oil Concerns Hit Hardest

(By the Associated Press)
Disputes along the nation's labor front, which for more than a week have kept the strike idle around the 200,000 mark, spread today, taking new groups of workers away from their jobs.

New work stoppages during the last 24 hours hiked the idle to about 210,000 and threats of additional strikes in the oil industry indicated a new high for the summer would be on the national total before the end of the week.

There was comparative calm in the labor-troubled Detroit area where some 80,000 workers are idle by strikes and shutdowns but

Meandering Along the Main Stem

By WASH FAYETTE

Now that the service men of Fayette County are returning victorious from the World War, don't think for a minute that those whose names appeared in print for various achievements, are the only ones who fought bravely, risked their lives many times, and went through a hell on earth in defense of home, country and civilization.

Mention has been carried about a large number of Fayette Countians and the part they played in the war, but there are hundreds of others whose names probably have not appeared in print as to what they did in battle who also have enviable records in the various branches of service.

Public Relations departments of many outfits have kept the folks back home informed about a large number of the boys who were scattered all over the globe and did notable work wherever placed.

Relatives and friends contributed information about additional service men, but a host of others received no mention because their work was not publicized like the others.

So when a service man returns from overseas, and you have not heard of what he did, just remember wherever he was he was serving his country to the best of his ability, and has done his part nobly in the defeat of Italy, Germany and Japan, not to mention the several little rascals that assisted Germany and her allies.

As I was walking down the street Wednesday forenoon, I met George F. Grand Girard of Circleville, who is one of the most remarkable druggists in Ohio because he not only has operated a drug store for 68 years, but has occupied the same room at 115 West Main Street, Circleville, all of those years.

George was surprised when I halted him just after Charles Rinehart had stopped him, for we had not met for 15 years or more. However we had an enjoyable little visit before he started for one of the drug stores to visit the proprietor whom he had known for years.

George is said to be the oldest druggist in point of having occupied a single room the longest, in the United States.

VETERAN REGISTERS ON 18TH BIRTHDAY

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 20.—(AP)—Pfc. John J. Fare, who served in the army almost four years, entered draft board headquarters to register for military service.

Noting his uniform decorated with an ETO Ribbon with three Battle Stars, the Combat Infantryman's Badge and the Good Conduct Medal, the chief clerk asked why he wanted to register.

"Well," replied the veteran, "I was 18 on March 12. When you become 18, you have to register, don't you?"

Fare, discharged last Monday, bluffed his way into service in 1941 when he was five feet seven and weighed 127 pounds. He saw service in England, the Battle of the Bulge and Germany.

WAR'S END SURE WITHOUT BOMB, GEN. L'MAY SAYS

Japs Would Have Quit Soon Anyway, Youthful Air Chief Declares

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—(AP)—Maj. Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, who directed B-29 Superfortress attacks on Japan, said today "the atomic bomb had nothing to do with the end of the war at all."

"The war would have been over in two weeks without the Russians coming in and without the atomic bomb," LeMay said at a news conference called to discuss the flight which he and two other generals made from Japan to Washington yesterday in three Superfortresses.

The three planes, scheduled to make a non-stop hop to the capital, were forced down short of their goal at Chicago.

The youthful chief of staff of the U. S. Strategic Air Forces in the Pacific said he could not disclose how he knew for certain that the Japs were licked and trying to quit. The atomic bomb, he said, helped the emperor convince the soldiers and sailors the war was over.

Asked whether Japan could have been beaten solely by air power, the three generals at the conference table—LeMay, Lt. Gen. Barney M. Giles and Brig. Gen. Emmett O'Donnell—said almost in unison, "That is what we did."

Giles, who is deputy commander of the United States Strategic Air Forces in the Pacific, estimated that about eight or ten technical air groups involving about 40,000 personnel and 800 airplanes, would be maintained in Japan.

Asked how long we should occupy Japan, Giles said, "Oh, I'd say a hundred years."

Later on, he recalled that answer and said, "I was serious about that hundred years," adding his belief that if the United States occupational forces moved out of Japan soon there would be trouble from the 3,000,000 trained soldiers there who never had fired a shot during the war.

He asserted that the sudden Japanese surrender had nullified extensive plans for a huge invasion of Japan on November 1.

That surrender, he explained, had reversed numerous personnel plans for the Army.

Marshall assured Congress that demobilization was going forward as rapidly as possible. He said there was no relationship between the rate of discharge by men from the Army and War Department plans for a postwar army.

Any such postwar plan, he told Congress, can wait until the middle of next year.

Marshall predicted that 450,000 soldiers would be released during September and 550,000 during October.

Thereafter the release will be at a rate from 700,000 to 800,000 a month, he said.

Marshall reported that both General Dwight Eisenhower, commander in the European theater, and General Douglas MacArthur, Army head in the Pacific, had vigorously protested when the initial 85-point discharge score was reduced to 80 points. The theater commanders contended that key leadership personnel, such as master sergeants, technical sergeants,

Maj. Adolphus Leonard Berney, who took charge of the administration of the horror camp after its liberation April 15, was the witness. He said the food store contained 120 tons of canned meat, 30 tons of sugar, more than 20 tons of powdered milk, wheat stocks and bread, none of which was issued to the camp.

Japan-to-Washington Flight Fails to Reach

By JAMES J. STREIBIG
WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—(AP)—Beaten by a 50 to 1 shot, Lt. Gen. Barney M. Giles believes the Japan to America non-stop run soon will be flown in both directions—and often.

Giles led a flight of three stripped-down B-29s in an unsuccessful attempt to reach Washington from Sapporo, Japan, without a pause.

The big Superfortresses sat down at Chicago late yesterday to take on fuel after stubborn headwinds blew away their chances some 6,100 miles and 26 hours after their take-off.

"We hit weather you wouldn't hit once in 50 times," Giles said after the planes covered the remaining 600 miles to Washington in just over two hours.

Giles disclosed the fueling stop was more a matter of caution than necessity. One plane had 1,200 gallons left of the 10,000 with which it started; another had 1,000 and the third 700 gallons.

The flight to Chicago was about 200 miles short of a Russian hop from Moscow to California, and 1,000 miles under the world record set by two British planes in flying from Egypt to Australia.

The plane commanded by Giles reached Chicago 26 hours and 25 minutes after leaving Japan. It averaged about 231 miles an hour.

Brig. Gen. Emmett O'Donnell reached Chicago in 25 hours, 43 minutes. Maj. Gen. Curtis E. LeMay trailed in at 27 hours.

Army Discharge Is Explained By Chief of Staff

Tax-cutting Plan Takes Form as Congressional Squabble Over Jobless Pay Goes to Senate—Unemployment Service Turned Back to States But Without Help To Increase Idle Benefits

By MAX HALL

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—(AP)—General Marshall spoke. Congress listened. This was the No. 1 news on Capitol Hill today.

Five-starred George C. Marshall, Army chief of staff, won high respect from the law-makers whenever he talked to them during the war.

Now he would see what he could do in peacetime. His task was to explain why soldiers aren't being released as fast as some angry congressmen think they should be.

He addressed an informal joint meeting of the Senate and House. General Marshall told Congress today that the point system for demobilization of soldiers can be abandoned by winter.

The Army chief of staff advised a joint Senate-House meeting that the present discharge score of 80 points could be lowered to 70 points by October 1 and to 60 points by November 1.

"We may reach a point in late winter when the point system will cease and all men with two years service will be released," Marshall said.

He asserted that the sudden Japanese surrender had nullified extensive plans for a huge invasion of Japan on November 1.

That surrender, he explained, had reversed numerous personnel plans for the Army.

Marshall assured Congress that demobilization was going forward as rapidly as possible. He said there was no relationship between the rate of discharge by men from the Army and War Department plans for a postwar army.

Body of Another Woman Found Near Golden Gate

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 20.—(AP)—Clothing of the attractive wife of a navy ensign, found in a cove, led police today to believe that another woman—the third in recent days—had met death in San Francisco's Golden Gate.

The clothing were identified as those of Mrs. Jeanette Chrysler Curley, 20, whose husband, Ens. Robert G. Curley, is aboard the U. S. S. Missouri. She left the home of her in-laws Tuesday, saying she was going swimming. Navy authorities and police continued investigating the death of Mary Joan Dunn McDermott, 23, Navy WAVE and wife of a Navy officer, whose broken body was found floating behind a breakwater near the Golden Gate Bridge Tuesday.

The third woman, Mrs. Helen Goree of Berkeley, plunged to her death from the bridge yesterday. Relatives told police she had threatened to commit suicide.

Thus, lightly, did they view the developing clouds, although one mentioned the condition as "a national outbreak" and another considered the possibility that the wheel plant was pulled out to put Ford in a defensive mood while the UAW dealt with his rival, General Motors, and all recognized the symptoms of spreading union de-

25 FOREST FIRES BURN IN NORTH CALIFORNIA
SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 20.—(AP)—Flames of 25 forest fires swept through forest and range lands of northern California today, adding to the estimated $3,000,000 damage done by 6,500 separate blazes in the state this year.

All northern California logging operations were ordered shut down.

Thousands of Yank Sailors To Come Back Aboard Third Fleet Warships

TOKYO, Sept. 20.—(AP)—Several thousand American navy men headed for home aboard 17 Third fleet warships today, while General MacArthur's headquarters reported army occupation forces would increase to 400,000 before dropping to his predicted 200,000 "duration" total—and Lt. Gen. Robert L. Eichelberger said he couldn't have asked for an easier occupation.

conquered nation "surprisingly successful and extremely easy," said Eichelberger, commander of the Eighth army, which occupies central and northern Honshu.

If the Japanese government had been dissolved, many more Allied troops and much more time would have been required, Eichelberger told Associated Press Correspondent Hamilton W. Faron.

Adm. Kichisaburo Nomura, ambassador to the United States at the time of Pearl Harbor, declared today that Japan must rid herself of soldier statesmen and militarists to prevent the "mistake" of another war.

In an exclusive interview by Morrie Landsberg of the AP, the retired admiral asserted the militarists caught him by surprise with the Pearl Harbor attack at the time he was handing a Japanese note to Secretary of State Hull on that fateful December 7, 1941.

"We made many blunders in the past," Nomura said. "The people were beginning to understand that our policy on the mainland (China) wasn't decent—that the whole thing was a failure and full of blunders."

"No doubt the military people and the Navy went beyond their domain in Japan. They ought to stick to their own service and keep out of politics."

The Eighth army commander also announced that Japan's wartime Premier Hideki Tojo soon will be moved "into the local calaboose (at Yokohama) to join the rest of his Pearl Harbor gang."

The ex-premier is recovering from his self-inflicted bullet wound and should be ready to move in a week.

Speaking of the smoothness of the occupation, he pointed out that: "We've naturally been hardened by years of combat, but we are not so rough that we want to mistreat civilians who obey our every demand with a bow."

The Domei Agency said today that the Japanese Finance Ministry, on orders from General MacArthur, had frozen assets and property of Axis nationals in Japan.

A 100-mile-an-hour typhoon which lashed the homeland islands September 17 and 18, killed 48 Japanese and destroyed more than 2000 homes, but no Americans were injured seriously, the Japanese Home Ministry reported today.

Aircraft and trucks were rolled into wreckage at Kanoya Airfield on Koshu, hardest-hit area. The storm swept across Kyushu, Shikoku and western Honshu before heading out into the Sea of Japan.

The Japanese already have disarmed and demobilized three-fourths of their homeland army although there are only 150,000 Allied troops in Japan, thus far, to oversee the process, MacArthur's headquarters reported.

State Department expressions of surprise and concern at MacArthur's prediction of three days ago on the size of the occupation forces drew another terse "no comment" from MacArthur today.

His staff officers pointed out, however, his announcement of future reductions had clearly specified a probable force of 200,000 six months hence. It did not say that this would be the maximum landed in the meantime.

PINKING PLAN FLOPS FOR NEGLECTED WIFE

CHICAGO, Sept. 20.—(AP)—Mrs. Ruth Brovan, 30, told Superior Judge Edwin A. Robson yesterday that a plan she devised to stop her husband, Herbert, 34, from going out with another woman, didn't pan out.

She said that on Sept. 9 while her husband slept she took her pinking scissors and pinked off one leg of each of his pairs of trousers. Then she went to a hotel. But she learned later, she told the court in testifying in her suit for separate maintenance, her husband kept his date, donning a pair of overalls.

ENTRY BLANKS FOR AMATEURS TO BE IN PAPER

Pleasure Class Was Added To Horse Show After Prize List Mailed

All the fun those horsebacking folks of Fayette County have been having these last few months with their frequent cross-country canter is to be given a new sprinkling of spice. Rather, that is, the Lions Club is setting the spice box out for them.

With a realization that a lot of men and women have been going in for horseback riding this summer, the club committee making the arrangements for the coming Horse Show at the Fairground here the afternoon and evening of September 30 added a special class for pleasure horses ridden by amateurs. Up to now the reaction has been more enthusiastic than the most optimistic had hoped for. But there were complications.

The program had been drawn up with 10 classes for the afternoon and ten more for evening—and no place had been made for the amateur pleasure riders. To complicate matters, entry blanks had gone out.

It was comparatively simple to expand the afternoon program, but to make it simple for devotees of the spreading sport to get in was something else.

The committee then hit upon the plan of separate entry. A blank will be printed in tomorrow's Record-Herald. The committee expressed the hope that "anyone and everyone interested" would fill one out and mail it to John Sagar, Lions Club, box 508, city. Entries also could be made, it was said, by telephone calls to Sagar or to Frank Ellis.

The club committee was jubilant over the prospects for this typically home talent performance. A spokesman said "it looks like just the kind of a thing everyone will enjoy, either from the grandstand or as a participant."

Men from Here Attend Area Meeting In Troy Wednesday

"Give Generously in Victory" is the slogan adopted for the $23,000 National War Fund drive here.

It was chosen at an area meeting in Troy Wednesday night—a meeting attended by Charles Reinke, campaign chairman; Walter Patton, publicity chairman; Stephen C. Brown, vice-chairman; W. J. Other speakers included Dr. B. A. # ARMY DISCHARGE PLAN EXPLAINED; TAX CUT BILL TAKES FORM IN CONGRESS and cooks were among the long service veterans who would be entitled to release first, Marshall said.

Limited servicemen who did not qualify for overseas duty, Gen. Marshall said, probably must stay in the Army for several months. He explained these men now operated some 3,000 Army installations and that a heavy load was put upon these centers by demobilization.

The general drew a laugh from most congressmen when he noted he was receiving a "heavy personal mail," on demobilization protests.

"It is not all light reading," Marshall added.

Other Matters

Meanwhile these other things claimed attention:

1. A new tax-cutting plan took shape.

2. The Senate made ready to complete its action on the unemployment tax pay bill and send it to the House, where the rumpus will start over again.

3. The House prepared to debate a bill to give the states an undisputed right to adjoining lands that are under water.

4. Mary Norton (D-NJ), chairman of the House labor committee, said her new bill to raise the minimum wage for firms in interstate commerce from 40 to 65 cents an hour has so much support she thinks a committee hearing will be unnecessary.

5. The Senate banking committee was on the verge of putting its final punctuation marks on the so-called "full employment" bill so that it can be debated in the Senate next week.

Argument Over Jobless

This much-argued bill provides that the government take steps every year to see that enough jobs are available.

In the Senate debate over emergency help to the unemployed, the two main contests came yesterday. The administration lost both of them, despite anything that Senator Barkley (D-Ky) could say.

Senate Republicans, joined by nearly half the Democrats, rammed through an amendment to turn the U. S. Employment Service back to state operation, and then voted down a proposal to help the states make larger weekly payments to jobless people—up to a maximum of $25.

WORLD TODAY

—By DEWITT MACKENZIE—

General MacArthur seems to have stirred up a sizable cloud of conflicting emotions by his announcement that Uncle Sam's occupation forces in Japan may be cut to some 200,000 within six months—a divergence of opinion which isn't strange in view of the numerous issues involved.

For the soldiers who want to get back home, and for their families, such a cut means one thing. It means quite another to the exponents of using the mailed fist on the Japs. To another group it means something else, and so it goes. But it strikes me that whatever may be the premise from which you argue you always arrive at the same point, which is this:

We must maintain troops in Japan as long as is necessary to achieve the far-reaching objectives of the Declaration of Potsdam by the Big Three—whether it be one year or twenty. We must keep as many soldiers there as are required to enforce this program—whether it be 200,000 or 2,000,000.

The Potsdam edict calls not only for the physical disarmament but for the moral rearmament of Nippon. The very character of the people must be changed to rid them of their medieval ideas, fit them to govern themselves, and so prepare them for a place among the United Nations.

Now that's a job which can't be accomplished quickly, for it must be done by a process of education. General Wainwright, hero of Corregidor, who is fresh from the barbarism of a Jap prison camp, declares that we shall have to occupy Japan for twenty years. Well, it could be, although with luck we might be able to cut that down.

Of one thing we may be sure, and this is that we aren't going to be able to convert to western ways many of the militaristic minded people who have passed their youth. It's an ancient wheeze but true—that you can't teach an old dog new tricks. You have to catch 'em young—and you have to catch human beings young if you are bent on changing their natures. Of course there are some Japanese who are against aggression and who believe in the Golden Rule, but you probably could get most of them into your back yard at one time if you wanted to make a speech to them.

This means that the educational task lies with the young folk, and it must begin with youngsters as soon as they have reached the age of understanding. That's the way both Hitler and Mussolini prepared their countries for aggression. The German anti-Christ went much further and reared a generation of barbarians who perpetrated some of the worst atrocities known to history.

Mussolini had a score of years or so in which to achieve his evil mission, but he concentrated on the young, both boys and girls. As a result when the time came for him to stab France in the back he had a great force of fanatical Fascists behind him.

Hitler worked much faster, but more intensively. Only about half a dozen years elapsed from the time he assumed power in 1933 until he struck the first blow of the second World War. However, Nazism had got a grip on many Germans before 1933, and he also had the advantage of working in a militaristic country.

In that brief time Hitler turned the young boys of his country into barbarians. He taught the young girls that it was their duty to have babies, and never mind marriage. He even provided fine maternity homes for these misguided children.

The lesson is conclusive. It is the young whose natures can be changed easily. And they will respond to good teachings quite as readily as to the wickedness of Hitler and Mussolini. Concentration over a period of say ten years might turn the trick in Japan.

Leo J. Whiteside, World War II veteran, now is teaching eighth grade mathematics and coaching junior high sports at the high school here.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

mands for the greatest wage increase in all history. Soon developments will plainly disclose it as a well financed and managed campaign, strongest since the sit-down strike, and expertly timed for the reconversion period when all manufacturers are trying to get a jump on competitors.

Behind it is CIO, and behind CIO lie these following inner conditions:

The public, Congress and even government has come to look upon CIO as the most powerful political and economic force of the country. It is not. CIO claims 5,000,000 membership, but has a little more than half that many dues payers.

From the start it has concealed all data on its membership. To give it 3,000,000 would be generous. Its power lies not in numbers but in riches, which it is able to spend in political campaigns.

AFL really has about 5,000,000 dues payers and proves it by published bank and certified accountant figures. Indeed, it bargains for 2,000,000 additional, but it does not try to control national economy or use its money mainly for political action.

Now in an organized campaign to spearhead a 30 percent wage increase and thus control economic policy of the country, CIO actually represents about 5 percent of the workers. Are not all economic authorities agreed (Messrs. Wallace and the manufacturers) that there are in hand and prospect about 60,000,000 peacetime jobs for that number of workers? (Best sources say 53,500,000 plus army, making nearly 60,000,000.)

Together CIO plus AFL have less than 8,000,000 dues payers (these figures have been obtained from the best objective authority) and about 10,000,000 for whom they bargain. The farmers are just as powerful a political and economic force, numerically. Their 1943 census showed 10,263,000 at work on farms in the country, at a time when help was depleted.

Yet greater than both unionist and farmer are the 40,000,000 or so workers outside both. While the unions are rich (their war incomes were completely free from taxation) and the farmers have three modestly financed lobbies which do not try to dominate the country, the 40,000,000 have no organized money or representation.

Yet their economic interest is paramount and their wellbeing can make or break the country, while CIO's 3,000,000 is merely equal to the number of normally unemployed. If the 30 percent wage is forced, most of 40,000,000 will pay in increased prices forever, without a wage increase for themselves, but with a heavy cut in their savings, because every price increase cuts the value of the dollar in every bond they hold.

The CIO unions, by chosen activity, have thus gone far beyond a position as simple bargaining agents for themselves. Through strike campaigns, bills pressed through Congress and pressure upon politics through the political action organization, they are directing the economics and politics of 135,000,000 people, without the responsibility for making the nation successful. What the politicians called "The wolves of Wall Street" may have formerly run the country by their similar money power (without numerical strength) but at least they wanted to keep it going so their profits would continue.

The question thus raised by current events is whether any economic minority can run a country in these days of fully planned economics. Plainly it could, if the national responsibility of the group was superior to its selfish interest—but not otherwise. By running wages up and up, much the last few years, now 30 percent at a clip and more in years ahead, it can utterly destroy by such inflation every existing value in a nation.

What is needed is an overall objective in economic matters, a controlling top pressure for the greater good. This is the simple duty of government. It is what you expect of government, the reason for its existence. If government fails to furnish this objectivity, it has failed its primary responsibility. If it merely pretends to serve public interest, while fearful of groups, it becomes unworthy of its trust, and will bring the same result as minority domination of national economics.

BRITISH SAILORS KNOW JOY OF LIVING WITH TEA AND RUM DAILY

over the long hours between lunch and dinner—and the British navy's adult attitude toward alcohol point up one of the superiorities of sea life aboard the battleship Duke of York over say the battleship Missouri.

The British have learned to relax better than Americans on long sea tours which threaten to break men down with monotony and boredom.

The wardroom bar aboard this ship is open from noon until 1:30 P. M. and from 6 in the evening until 10:30 P. M. This routine is followed even when the ship is on combat duty, except when the men are actually at action stations.

Ordinary seamen 20 years of age or over get a traditional tot of rum daily—one-eighth of a pint, two full ounces—or they can take it out in added pay if they prefer, three pence (5 cents) daily.

About 60 percent of the men prefer the rum. The king's regulations provide that rum issued to seamen must be mixed with at least two parts water. They can't drink it neat.

On special occasions, such as a victory over Japan, everyone 20 or over "splices the mainbrace"—he gets an extra tot of rum and the king foots the bill.

Thirsty seamen and officers under 20 as well as older totallots "splice the mainbrace" with a tot of a pint of lime water and one ounce of sugar.

When the Japanese surrendered, Admiral Halsey issued an order to "splice the mainbrace" for British fleet units under his command. Unfortunately for American seamen he followed it up with "negative" for United States ships whose personnel were all ready to break out beer stored in holds for consumption ashore.

The American navy still remains theoretically dry at sea with the exception of carriers, on which plane pilots get one whisky slug, if they want one, when they return from missions.

There is no set restriction on the consumption of liquor in British wardrooms by officers, but there is generally an understanding that each officer's bill won't exceed five pounds ($20) a month. The average price of Scotch is only sixpence a drink—one dime—or less so that it allows an officer 200 drinks a month, or six per day.

Most officers are well below the limit. The mere fact that liquor is available every day tends to cut down its use.

"It would be silly to abuse it," said one officer, who likewise thought it would be equally silly if no liquor at all were allowed to be drunk aboard.

This grown-up attitude puts responsibility squarely on the individual officer. If he can't stand up to his liquor—or his responsibility, the British navy has its way of handling the situation.

Deserving Citizens

Among the comparatively minor national problems of World War I which became of major importance in World War II has been naturalizations of aliens serving with our armed forces. In spite of belief to the contrary, honorable service in our army or navy did not in the first war entitle an alien to immediate citizenship, or even to simplification of the processes leading to it.

This time, largely as a result of the influx of refugees escaping from Nazi terror, our entry into the war found us with over 400,000 alien males of draft age, more than half of whom were single. These men were not only subject to military service here, but were also in danger of immediate execution as traitors should they be taken prisoner while fighting for us in their former homelands.

So Congress, under the Second War Powers Act of 1942, enabled any such alien serving with our forces, or possessing an honorable discharge, to request naturalization without "first papers." The Department of Immigration and Naturalization sent out representatives to all the fighting fronts, who by the first of this year had conferred citizenship rights upon 101,653 men and women in uniform.

These new citizens, who have earned their rights by service, are returning to make their homes here. It will be up to their fellow Americans to prove to them, by their welcome, that they have chosen well.

Disorderly Triumphs

A legitimate criticism of war in the American style is that our victory celebrations are so untidy. The ancient Greeks and Romans, who won quite a lot of famous victories in their time, were neater about it.

Much of that quality, perhaps, was unintentional. They had no newspapers to tear up and throw around. So they just flocked into the forum (ancient market place and public square) and almost yelled their heads off. And it worked too, because mass hollering is the same in all languages, and it ends as soon as the crowd's vocal organs are exhausted.

It is a good thing that the victory rooters of those olden times, looking down from Olympus—their substitute for Heaven or a less popular resort—couldn't see such under-foot messes as we are now discussing. They might say to each other that while victories, whether in war or football, are all right in their way, there is such a thing as a decent respect for the opinion of the gods (angels and archangels to you) and they might even gang up and shove our rowdy celebrants into outer darkness. We say that "order is heaven's first law." But gosh, how we act about it!

Closed Shop Medical Practice

There has been no formula devised by which human ills can be brought under the wage and hour laws; sickness will probably never be put on a 40-hour weekly basis with time and a half for overtime. That being true, it seems odd that the proposed Wagner-Murray-Dingell bill would virtually create a closed shop of doctors; only those participating in the scheme would be available to a patient, except at his own expense.

The proponents of the WMD bill insist that it will provide adequate medical care for the masses at cut-rate prices, yet the chances are the more competent and successful medical practitioners will not subscribe to the socialization scheme unless forced to do so. Therefore, the organization staff might well be oversupplied with those who for one reason or another were unsuccessful in establishing a practice under normal conditions.

Under the impact of sickness, the first thought is for the best talent. The health and well-being of a loved one is not something one buys at a bargain counter.

The sincerity and idealism of those writing the bill is not in the least questioned; the widespread benefits to be gained by many from some sort of health insurance formula are likewise beyond question. But the application of the closed shop philosophy, however unintentional, to the medical profession, and the reducing of medical care to the bargain counter status, will not be productive of the desired ends.

An Obscure Illness

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

THERE is little known at present concerning either the cause, or the things which influence the disease known as leukemia. This is a disorder in which there is a great increase in the number of white cells in the blood.

There has been no treatment discovered as yet which will cure this condition, but, according to Doctors Asa B. Friedmann and Leo M. Meyer of New York, the injection of whole blood into a vein, the use of various drugs and X-ray treatments, if properly employed, may check the progress of the disease and prolong life.

X-ray Treatment

In giving the X-ray treatments, the dosage should be as small as is possible still to bring relief of symptoms. If too much X-ray is given, the white blood cells become resistant to the rays and good results are not obtained.

There are, in general, two kinds of leukemia. One is called the myelogenous and the other lymphatic. A careful examination of the blood is necessary to make a diagnosis as to which type is present. The lymphatic type is, in general, more severe and progresses much more rapidly.

In more than one hundred patients with leukemia, about half had the myelogenous type. The disease seems to affect males and females equally as often. The average age at the onset of the myelogenous leukemia is about 36 years. In the acute type this disease runs a rapid course. In the chronic myelogenous leukemia, the average duration of the illness is about 3½ to 4 years.

Lymphatic leukemia occurs twice as often in males as in females. In giving the X-ray treatments for these conditions, the various parts of the body are exposed to the rays, such as the area over the spleen in the left upper part of the abdomen, lymph glands and various other parts of the body and the bones.

If there is pain in certain parts of the body due to the collection of white blood cells in the tissue, the X-ray treatments will lessen the pain.

Many studies of leukemia are going on at the present time. It is to be hoped that sooner or later the cause for this condition may be found so that some order of treatment may be worked out which will prevent or cure it.

The only way to have a friend is to be one yourself;
The only way to keep a friend is to give from that wealth.

For friendship must be double-fold.
Each one must give his share.
Of feelings true if he would reap
The blessings that are there.

If you would say, "He is my friend,"
Then nothing else will do.
But you must say, "I am his friend,"
And prove that fact be true!

Let no soft slumber close your eyes.
Before you've recollected thrice
The train of action through the day!

Where have my feet chose out their way?
What have I learnt, where'er I've been,
From all I've heard, from all I've seen?

What know I more that's worth
What have I done that's worth the doing?

What have I sought that I should shun?

What duty have I left undone,
Or into what new follies run?
These self-inquiries are the road
That leads to virtue and to God.

CHAPTER TWENTY-TWO

"YOU MEAN your mother is ALIVE?" Sandra did not actually ask that question aloud, but she felt as if she had shouted it. Guiltily, she looked around, but neither Gordon Adams, nor his employees, were paying attention to the trio beside the gift-filled table.

Spenser was more to the point. "But, Belinda, I thought—why, your mother is alive—how perfectly jolly!"

"Is it?" Belinda cut in coldly. She was opening the sealed envelope.

Social conventions fought curiously. Curiously won. Spenser peered past the little girl's shoulder. As Sandra watched, she saw his British reserve do a tumble. He looked as aghast as when he had caught his first glimpse of the made-over Belinda.

"What a corking present!" he cried. "Twelve thousand dollars!" "Sure," said Belinda serenely. "Last year, eleven thousand. Next year, thirteen thousand. Such original gifts!" she slid the check back into its envelope and tossed it upon the table.

Spenser said sensibly: "But Belinda, even though you feel a bit on the mopey side about your mother, you should feel chipper about the money. Don't be so deuced casual. Money," he told her, peering sternly through his glasses, "is most important. I," he admitted with reluctance, "shan't have any of mine until I'm twenty."

His envy for this girl who with every birthday achieved as many thousands of dollars was clearly evident.

Sandra knew now why Brody had commented on Belinda's money that morning while they watched her trudge down the muddy ranch road toward school. She had so much that it made a definite contrast to her sloppy way of living. A person, if they knew, could not help mentioning it.

Beneath her upswep red hair Sandra's brain was whirling inquisitively. She was trying, with scant success, to estimate the child's present fortune. Also, she was wildly curious about Belinda's mother.

Spenser was saying: "And, beyond a doubt, I'll not have as much as I think, if this unhappy war keeps on."

Belinda had been straightening her gifts with one hand. The other clutched the Irish setter, beneath her arm. She spoke now: "I don't need money to be happy, Spenser. I have everything I could possibly want, right here on the Mesquite Ranch."

The English boy frowned a reproval. "But, Belinda, money helps a girl make an excellent marriage."

"I believe Spenser is proposing to you, Belinda."

Sandra's teasing did not meet with friendliness. Spenser blushed painfully, making the red-haired girl feel unhappy and foolish.

Belinda was definitely hostile. "Women with money," she condemned, "ruin every place and everybody. They are worse than hydrophobia skunks!"

"What are hydrophobia skunks?" demanded the British youngster. His desire for knowledge came first; his response to her insult would come later.

"Little skunks with white spots instead of stripes. They are carriers. They bite coyotes and dogs, even people, and give them hydrophobia. That is, if they are carrying the germ, and they usually are."

She was so absurdly angry that she was tense; the puppy whimpered a complaint against the pressure of her arm.

Sandra was glad, because the little girl glanced down at the dog and instantly forgot her fury. Spenser, however, had not forgotten it. He was ready to notice it now. "Money wouldn't help you get married, Belinda. You are definitely too cantankerous!" he managed, after a brief tug at his memory.

"So Brody tells me," she replied, letting the boy know that she realized where his Americanized opinion had originated. Abruptly she smiled. "I'd rather have this dog than any present, Spenser."

That pleasant observation made the atmosphere as happy as it had been strained before. The three were smiling again, when Gordon Adams walked over and joined them. He, also Brody and several Mesquite cowpunchers, had been standing on the opposite side of the room beside another, smaller table.

On it was a copper tray, filled with old-fashioned, Sandra had been baffled to a certain extent, to see cosmopolitan cocktails in expensive, frost-trimmed glasses. Straight whisky would have been her selection, if asked to name a western potion.

Gordon did not look directly at Sandra when he stopped beside her. He said: "Hello!" quickly and turned his attention to his daughter.

"Looks like you've made quite a haul, huh, Skeeter?"

"You said it! Oh, Dad," she said rapturously, "the boots are gorgeous."

The thrilling note in her young voice made Gordon Adams really look at Sandra now. His eyes were triumphant and he lifted his cocktail glass as if saluting his own victory.

Belinda eyed it without knowing. "Look, Dad, at the dress Miss Edwards gave me."

"It's very nice," he replied stiffly. "Oh now, Dad, it's more than that. This dress is super. But definitely!" Her imitation of Spenser's clipped speech was so unconsciously done that no one made a comment.

The ranch owner said: "You should have bought some like it before. You could have, you know."

"I doubt it. This dress is above the usual run."

Her description, so similar to the one Sandra had made in Porter's, gave Gordon Adams an uncomfortable sensation. It was as if the dressmaker had enlisted the allegiance of the little girl. Sandra also felt strange. Spenser was the only unperturbed person. He was eating Jordan almonds.

Belinda continued: "It does something for me." A mischievous shadow dashed over her face. "It even made Spenser propose."

The British boy was not unperturbed now. His face was rufous. He whirled toward the girl. "See here, Belinda—Asa swiftly, he faced Gordon Adams. "Actually, I did not, sir."

He shrugged, acknowledging defeat, as laughter began to ring all about them. Belinda was gloating, to a certain extent over having lured him. Gordon Adams was merely responding to his own daughter's happiness. Sandra was thrilled by the fact that she had brought confidence and coquetry to this plain little girl.

It seemed now that everyone was happy, not only the two children and the couple by the larger table, but also the cowpunchers, divided into little friendly groups by the cocktail tray. The big room seemed filled with happy sparks.

Plainly Belinda's birthday was an occasion. It was not entirely the cocktails, or the extra fancy dinner, or the cake with its 12 bright candles, or even the champagne in hollow-stemmed glasses, so inharmonious in the rough hands of the cowpunchers.

It was more the manner in which the little girl held away. Held court, was a better description. The conversation revolved around her, instead of rounding into a ball of "shop" talk that hovered over the heads of the ranch owner and his cowhands.

It was the way Brody and Eslette pulled up chairs and joined the others for birthday cake and wine. Above all those things it was the way "Happy birthday, Belinda," meant exactly that. Gordon Adams had told his unwelcome guest that all the ranch employees loved Belinda. At this birthday celebration Sandra was seeing it proven. The tears that tried to grind into her eyes were not her usual ones. They were caused strictly by the sweet complacent thought going through her head. An incredible thought.

She was happier than she had ever been in her life.

DEEPENING OHIO MAY GET APPROVAL

Deeper Channel Needed Most Of River's Length

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—(AP)—Proposals to deepen the Ohio River have a good chance of winning approval of the army engineers.

A top member of the corps said today preliminary studies indicate a definite need for a deeper channel from Pittsburgh, Pa., to Cairo, Ill.

The cost would be great but engineers believe savings to shippers would be greater. The volume of river traffic would be increased vastly, resulting in more business for river towns.

It is a long range program. Congress authorized a survey but it was held up during the war. The engineers' field men won't have a report ready until September, next year.

Alpha Circle Will Have Hobby Show October Third

The Bloomingburg residence of Mrs. Howard Foster provided a perfect setting for the meeting of Alpha Circle (C.C.L.) members who met there on Wednesday evening for their session. Assisting hostess was Mrs. Robert McDonald. Vases and bowls of marigolds and zinnias, as well as other appropriate fall flowers, were placed at various points of vantage throughout the home.

President, Mrs. Arch Newbrey, capably presided during the business meeting which she opened by asking all to sing "When Johnny Comes Marching Home" and "Love's Old Sweet Song."

Members answered roll call by naming phobias of children, as well as adults. A considerable length of time was spent discussing this varied topic.

Twenty-two members then took part in a discussion of the hobby show, scheduled for club members, only, on Wednesday evening, October third. To be held in the Dayton Power and Light club rooms, this is the first venture of this nature by the club who are anticipating a goodly number of entries from hobby enthusiasts.

Judging will be made by a select group of persons outside of the club membership, it was announced.

Two charter members who had moved from the city but who are now enrolled on the membership rolls once more were Mrs. Jack Chaffin and Mrs. Kenneth Arnold, who were present last night. A guest was Mrs. Edgar McFadden.

At the close of the evening, Mrs. Frank Brown read a paper she had prepared on "Courage and Caution." Her fine approach to the subject was worthwhile and of interest to the mothers.

Alpha Chorus personnel, consisting of Mrs. William Himmel-spach, Mrs. Foster, Mrs. John O'Conner and Mrs. Ora Middleton, sang "Bells of St. Mary's." They were accompanied by Mrs. A. E. Weatherly.

Woman Missionary Talks to WSCS at Grace Church on Her Life and Work in China

Mrs. Horace Dewey

Mrs. Horace Dewey, Missionary in China at Outbreak of War, Will Return There Soon with Husband Held in Jap Detention Camp 2 Years

At the annual meeting of the Women's Society of Christian Service, held at Grace Methodist Church Wednesday night, and presided over by the president, Mrs. Rose Hughey, a large number of women heard one of the most interesting addresses on the Chinese people that has ever been given here.

The speaker was Mrs. Horace Dewey, who, with her husband, were missionaries in China at the outbreak of the World War, and Mrs. Dewey's husband was held in a detention camp by the Japanese for over two years.

Mrs. Dewey spoke on "Christian Chinese and Their Virtues." She told of the many fine attributes of the Christian Chinese people, taking up various phases of their character and giving a most enlightening address about the people among whom she and her husband had worked as missionaries.

Mrs. Dewey was introduced by Rev. George B. Parkin, former college classmate, who in turn had been presented by Mrs. Hughey in a brief address of welcome and introduction.

Mrs. Dewey said that unless one lives among the Chinese for years they do not know them, but when one once knows them and their ways, they are a most friendly, lovable people, and that she has the greatest admiration for the Chinese people.

"Most of them are of sterling worth, but of course there are the other kinds as well," Mrs. Dewey said.

Continuing Mrs. Dewey said in part: "The Chinese seem to have been born friendly, and they are temperate. I have never seen but four drunken Chinese."

"All of the Chinese are patient and tolerant, and the rank and file are peaceful. They have an abundance of Faith, Hope and Love, and hope is one of their main characteristics.

"Love among the Chinese matches ours. They are trusting, and their reverence for the Bible and knowledge of God is remarkable. The average Christian among the Chinese can quote more scripture than we can. Parts of the Bible are sung to Chinese tunes.

"They have a wonderful spirit of sacrifice and consecration. Chinese are great believers in signs. "China's door is wide open to missionaries, and China is facing tremendous difficulties, and will be in great need of everything that we can do to help them.

"So many Americans are ready to criticize and crucify their fellowmen by peddling 'dirt,' but not so with the Chinese. Let's not

OFFER SURPLUS WAR MATERIALS TO WHOLESALER

Flood of War Goods Starts Pouring Back Into Peace Channels

During the next year many farmers in Fayette County will own jeeps, army trucks, and other war equipment, and Fayette Countians generally will be using goods of many kinds turned back into peace channels.

The throttle in the Department of Commerce's three-fold drive to dispose of huge government surpluses, while at the same time protecting the legitimate dealer and saving as much money for the taxpayer as possible, opened several notches this week with the offer of merchandise to wholesalers, jobbers, retailers, and chain and mail order houses in Ohio, Kentucky, Indiana, and West Virginia.

Announcement of the offer was made by Rowland D. Schnell, regional director of the Office of Surplus Property Items offered included steel and wooden folding chairs, Navy raincoats and pea jackets, utility stools, pipes and tobacco pouches, automotive parts, and flashlight cases.

In announcing the sale of this merchandise Schnell said:

"These are the first of a series of offerings which reflect our policy of fixing prices on surplus merchandise at levels which, we hope, will protect legitimate business, stimulate employment and production, and at the same time realize maximum salvage for the taxpayer whose equity is fundamental."

"Dealers throughout the four states which compose our region four received descriptive literature on automotive parts Tuesday morning, and similar material on the other items Wednesday. All sufficient to assure a share for any legitimate dealer who orders promptly."

KIDNEYS MUST REMOVE EXCESS ACIDS

Help 15 Miles of Kidney Tubes Flush Out Poisonous Waste

If you have an excess of acids in your blood, your 15 miles of kidney tubes may be overworked. These tiny filters and tubes are working day and night to help Nature rid your system of excess acids and poisonous waste.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes show there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Kidneys may need help the same as bowels, so ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

UNEMPLOYMENT COMPENSATION LAW EXPLAINED

Largest Claims Load Since Payments Started Is Now Under Way

(Note—This is the first of three articles dealing with payments to the unemployed, and they are official releases.)

Currently engaged in receiving and processing what may be the biggest claims load since it started paying benefits to qualified unemployed workers in 1939, the Ohio Bureau of Unemployment Compensation today issued an explanation of provisions of the law designed to inform workers of the requirements for eligibility for benefits.

Protection of the Ohio law extends, in general, to all workers who have been employed by business concerns with three or more on their payrolls. There are approximately 2,000,000 covered workers in the state. A claimant qualifies, however, only if he has sufficient work credits in his "Base Period" and if he is able to work and available for work for which he is "reasonably fitted."

Certain acts on the part of a claimant will disqualify him. For example, voluntarily quitting employment "without just cause" is a grounds for disqualification.

"A wider understanding of the unemployment compensation law can do much to facilitate the handling of claims and issuance of payments during a period when the Bureau is handling a greatly increased load," Charles H. Jones, administrator of the Ohio Bureau of Unemployment Compensation, said. He urged that individual workers, and especially heads of organized labor groups, acquaint themselves more thoroughly with benefit provisions of the law.

Here are some of the general facts about unemployment compensation in Ohio:

All funds for the payment of benefits to Ohio workers are contributed by the approximately 51,300 covered employers in the state through quarterly payroll taxes sent to the Central Office of the Bureau at Columbus, Ohio. Workers do not contribute to this fund. At the close of August, the balance in the Ohio reserve trust fund for the payment of benefits stood at $480,221,738.

When a worker becomes unemployed and is unable to find employment, before he files a claim for unemployment compensation he should wait until a calendar week (Sunday through Saturday) has transpired during which he is totally unemployed or his earnings are reduced to less than what his benefit amount would be if he were totally unemployed ($5 minimum to $21 maximum.)

A claim for unemployment compensation should be filed at the local office of the Bureau nearest the home of the claimant in Ohio, or if in another state, at the local office of the unemployment compensation agency in that state nearest his home. The claimant must take with him his Social Security card and any wage or separation reports given him by his most recent employer.

After a person has filed a claim he will be required to register for work, and if any jobs are available for which he is "reasonably fitted" by training and experience he will be referred by the employment service to these employers. Refusal to accept an offer of work for which he is reasonably fitted, or refusal to accept a referral to such a job opportunity will result in denial of his claim.

However, the law specifies that no person otherwise qualified to receive benefits shall lose that right by reason of a refusal to accept new work if "the remuneration, hours, or other conditions of the work offered are substantially less favorable than those prevailing for similar work in the locality."

A basic requirement in the determination of the eligibility for benefits of all claimants is that they must have worked for an employer or employers covered by the law in at least 20 weeks and earned at least $160 in their "Base Period." The "Base Period" for any claimant is the first four of the last five completed calendar quarters immediately preceding the quarter in which he first files a valid claim.

SCHOOL HEADS ARE TO ATTEND STATE MEETING

Rehabilitation of Schools To Be Discussed at October 4 Confab

Three school officials from the city and county will be in on the discussion of rehabilitation of school buildings, veterans' problems and teacher shortages scheduled at a meeting of school superintendents in Columbus, October 4.

W. J. Hilty, superintendent of county schools; A. B. Murray, superintendent of city schools, and Stephen C. Brown, high school principal, will attend the meeting.

Hilty said he thought the rehabilitation program probably would deal with schools in districts with a $6000 or less per pupil evaluation. The average evaluation in the county schools is $7,500, he pointed out. "We don't have any schools that are poor," he chuckled.

The teacher shortage, Hilty predicted, would take up the problem of what to do with undertrained teachers now in many Ohio schools on temporary certificates. To retain such teachers, it is necessary that they meet the educational requirements, Hilty said.

There are practically no veterans enrolled in the county high schools, Hilty said. Vocational preparation rather than college preparatory courses will be favored by returning veterans, he thought. "At the same time, public schools are interested in taking anyone who wants to take advantage of their services," Hilty said.

Murray, discussing the subjects to be brought up in Columbus, said he thought the most serious teacher shortage was in the primary grades of elementary schools. He gave two reasons for his statement—that there are fewer teachers in training now and that there are more elementary students because of population increases.

If the overcrowded conditions continue throughout the next year or so a building program for additions to elementary schools might be set up here, Murray said.

TAFT IS SPEAKER
WILMINGTON—U. S. Senator Charles P. Taft spoke before 100 leaders from 11 counties, in the National War Fund Campaign.

BROUGHT TOGETHER AGAIN after their success as a team in "China," Loretta Young and Alan Ladd will shortly be seen as co-stars of Paramount's tender and moving drama, "And Now Tomorrow." The film is an adaption of Rachael Field's best-selling novel and arrives Sunday at the State Theatre. In supporting roles are such capable performers as Susan Hayward, Barry Sullivan, Cecil Kellaway and Beulah Bondi. The story tells of a young woman's courageous fight to regain her hearing and of a brilliant young doctor who discovered a cure. Also on the same program—See what the American boys went through in Europe, see Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's "The True Glory" a five-star screen smash.

SENIORITY PUZZLE SEEN BY VETERAN

Firm Where He Worked Is Absorbed by Another

CINCINNATI, Sept. 20.—(A)—A discharged veteran has asked a U. S. district court to clarify his seniority status with a firm that absorbed the company he was employed by when he entered military service.

In the first action of its kind filed here, U. S. District Attorney Byron B. Harlan asked the court for an injunction which would prevent the Trailmobile Company from reducing in status Lawrence Whirls of Norwood.

Whirls contended Trailmobile absorbed the Highland Body Co., his original employer, and that both firms operated with AFL-affiliated unions. Following the consolidation, CIO unions were named bargaining agents, depriving former Highland workers of their seniority, the suit alleged.

Andy Botkin has a hobby

Andy Botkin, tavern keeper at the Garden Cafe, has a hobby. It's writing to all the service men who used to make his place a sort of club.

And do they appreciate it? One of them sent him a German combat helmet; another, a Jap flag. He's got pictures and coins and souvenirs of all kinds on the wall—mementos with "To Andy" written on them.

And he showed me the letters that he's got back ... from homesick privates to reminiscence columns. Letters about home and

Before Old Man Winter comes to stay, Get Du Pont anti-freeze —don't delay!

Replacing a damaged radiator would cost you $40.00 or more ... and you might have trouble finding one. That's why it's wise to put in anti-freeze before a cold snap has a chance to ruin the radiator or other cooling system parts of your car.

For thorough anti-freeze protection, get Du Pont "Zerex" or War Emergency "Zerone" today.

$1.40 a gal. War Emergency "Zerone" gives thorough protection against rust and corrosion as well as freezing. Until regular "Zerone" comes back (this season's production went to war); there's no better buy at the price. Remember, it's made by Du Pont.

$2.65 a gal. A limited supply of "Zerex," Du Pont's non-evaporating anti-freeze, is now available. "Zerex" won't boil out. One filling lasts all winter. Nothing to worry about. Gives complete protection against rust and corrosion—won't form sludge or clog radiators. *TRADE MARK

BROTHERS AWAIT DEATH FROM MUSCULAR AILMENT

SALISBURY, N. C., Sept. 20.—(AP)—The three Pinion brothers, the eldest 19, wait with patience and fortitude for the death they know will not be long in coming.

The brothers are victims of muscular dystrophy, a rare disease nearly always fatal. Doctors have pronounced their cases hopeless.

David, the oldest, has suffered with the disease the longest—for 11 years. Billy is 15, Lloyd 12. None has been able to walk since he was 10.

MORE SOAP COMING

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—(AP)—More oils and soap will be available to civilians in the last quarter of 1945, but sugar supplies will be shorter for the next six months, Secretary of Agriculture Anderson estimated today.

CHILD KILLED ACCIDENTALLY IN ROPE SWING

Neck of Byran H. Blanton Is Broken in Fall With Rope About Neck

Seven-year-old Byran H. Blanton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Orville Blanton, 614 West Market Street, suffered a broken neck and was killed when the rope of a swing attached to a tree on the lawn at the Blanton home became entangled about the child's neck as he fell from a limb of the tree, late Wednesday evening.

The child had been missing about 15 or 20 minutes when search for him was started, and he was found reports stated, with his feet on the ground and his rope about his neck, partly supporting his body.

The rope had a loop on the end, was attached to a limb six or seven feet above the ground, and it seems the boy had been swinging by placing one foot in the looped end of the rope, which came within a short distance of the ground.

Just what happened could not be ascertained, but apparently the child had been on the limb, with the rope, and had fallen, the rope closing about his neck so that his neck was broken in the fall, and death must have been instantaneous.

Dr. N. M. Reiff, county coroner, reported accidental death. Call for the resuscitator at the fire department was made, and Assistant Fire Chief Emil Wilson hurried to the scene with the outfit, but the child was dead.

In addition to his parents, the little boy is survived by his grandmother, Mrs. Susanna Stone. Funeral services will be held Saturday at 2 P. M. at the Gregg Street Christian Union Church, with burial in charge of the Cox and Parrett Funeral Home. Rev. Arthur George will conduct the services.

Friends may call at the funeral home until the hour of the services.

FORGET-ME-NOT SALE TO START SATURDAY

Disabled Veterans Benefit From Money Earned

Blue forget-me-nots will be offered for sale on Washington C. H. streets Saturday under the auspices of the Fayette Chapter of Disabled American Veterans to raise funds for its local service and rehabilitation program for the returning soldier of World War II and all wars.

More than 25 high school girls will aid the DAV in its annual sale. Commander Harry N. Jones, head of the DAV Chapter here, is urging every resident to purchase a forget-me-not Saturday said.

"Forget-me-not day is symbolic to all members of the DAV of the battle for justice for less fortunate wartime disabled veterans. The DAV maintains service officers to aid free of charge all veterans in their fight for adequate compensation and to assist the disabled in proper presentation of claims for compensation and pensions."

BICYCLE STUNT TO BE FEATURE OF BAND'S SHOW

Marchers To Take Spotlight At Half of Game Friday Night

An old fashioned high-wheeled bicycle with both wheels turning will be the starred formation of the blue and white uniformed high school marching band when it steps into the spotlight at the half Friday night at Gardner Field. The Blue Lions are scheduled to meet Chillicothe there.

As the wheels of the bicycle turn, the band will play "A Bicycle Built for Two."

Before the bicycle formation, the band will make a revolving "C" to honor the Chillicothe fans on the north side of the field. After the bicycle stunt, the band will form a double-line "W" for the Washingtonians and play the school's alma mater.

Before the game, the spotlighted flag raising while the band plays the "Star Spangled Banner," is scheduled as has become the custom here. The band also is to march down the field to form a big "Hello" for the visiting fans.

That the marching band under William B. Clift's baton is in excellent form was demonstrated last week when the band made a steamboat with a revolving paddle wheel to play "Steamboat Bill" at the half.

CIRCLE ABOUT SUN ATTRACTS ATTENTION

Late Wednesday afternoon the attention of many people was attracted by two rainbow-colored spots (sun dogs) on each side of the sun, and later as the film of clouds brought refraction to perfection, the sun was completely encircled by the bright colors.

One man telephoned that there was a rainbow in the southwest, presumably one of the "sun dogs" on each side of the sun. There is an old saying that "circle around the sun, falling weather none; circle around the moon, falling weather soon."
